

Digital Registration on Entry

English

If you are entering Germany from another country and have visited a risk area or high-incidence area in the 10 days before your arrival, then you are in general required to stay in quarantine for 10 days after entry. If you have spent time in an area of variants of concern, then your quarantine period lasts 14 days. Please check the quarantine regulations for your federal state (Land) to see which regulations apply to you.

Why do I need to provide my details?

When do I not need to provide my details?

Further information on the current entry regulations for Germany in connection with the COVID-19 pandemic and on the current exemptions from the quarantine obligation is available on the website of the respective federal state. Answers to frequently asked questions concerning the new digital registration on entry procedure can be found on the Federal Ministry of Health's website.

As a result you're required to Get tested for coronavirus before commencing your journey.

Carry the test result with you when entering the country. The swab specimen may not have been taken more than 48 hours before entry. The competent authority may demand you submit this test result for up to 10 days after your entry into the country. Further information, also regarding exemptions from the testing obligation, is available here.

As a rule, you are required under Federal Land law to self-quarantine after entry. As a rule, this currently comprises 10 days. Depending on the risk area and Federal Land, this quarantine can be reduced or extended through testing. Further information, also regarding the exemptions from the quarantine obligation, is available on the Federal Länder websites.
